Announcement.

I feel so friendly to all that I have no wish to steal from any. My great desire is: That my Drugs shall restore health to your bodies. My Books, Magazines and Papers enrich your minds and make pure your hearts. My Wall Paper, Pictures, Frames, Vases, Statuary, &c., adorn your homes within. My Paints and Oils make them beautiful and enduring without. That no teeth shall ache through eating my Candies. That no boys shall learn to smoke because I sell good Cigars. No little fingers shall bleed because I keep keen Cutlery. That my Gold Rings may rob the finger of scorn of its venom, and the stiff-necked and rebellious become otherwise, as they are adorned with my Jewelry. That the Pocket Books I sell shall always be full. That my Gold Pens write only the loveliest of letters. That the Spectacles and Eye Glasses I sell may enable you all to see so correctly the blessings that surround you, that the underbrush of trouble shall be choked out. And that when I come to balance up for the year, I may find that if there should be a rainy day, I have got a little laid up for it.

The most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. Also excellent for human flesh. READ PROOF BELOW.

From a Prominent Physician.

Washingtonville, Ohio, June 17th, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents: Reading your advertisement in Turf, Field and Farm, of Kendall's Spavin Cure, and having a valuable and speedy horse which had been lame from spavin eighteen months, I sent to you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and enlargement and a large splint from another horse, and both horses are to day as sound as colts. The one bottle was worth to me one hundred dollars. Respectfully yours,

H. A. BERTOLETT, M. D.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE ON HUMAN FLESH.

Bakersfield, Vt., Dec. 23, 1879.

B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents: I wish to add my testimony in favor of your invaluable liniment, "Kendall's Spavin Cure." In the spring of 1862 I slipped on the ice and sprained my right limb at the knee joint. I was very lame and at times suffered the most excruciating pain. I wore a bandage on it for over a year, and tried most everything in my reach, but could find nothing that would give me permanent relief. When I overworked, it would pain me very much. In April, 1878, I began to think I should be a cripple for life; but having some of "Kendall's Spavin Cure" thought I would try it. I used one-third of a bottle and experienced relief at once. The pain left me and has not troubled me since. I feel very grateful to you and would recommend "Kendall's Spavin Cure" to all who suffer with sprains or rheumatism. Yours truly, MRS. J. BOUTELL.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE

Is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, and yet it is penetrating, and powerful to reach every deep seated pain, or to remove any bony growth or any other enlargements, such as spavins, splints, curbs, ailous, sprains, swellings and any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or for rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success, to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $.100 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All Druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburg Falls, Vermont.

The American Bible Society Depository is in the office of J. S. Jeness.

The P. M. church will commence their "Protracted Meetings" on the 21st of November. The public cordially invited.

For fine class of job work come to this office. Notices, letter-heads, billheads, cards, wedding invitations, pamphlets, books, etc.

There is an Oyster supper at the Congregachurch, in Augusta, Thursday evening, Nov. 18. Proceeds to aid in procurring stoves for the church. Tickets 25 cents.. By order of the Committee.

Had Capt. Allen been at home two or three weeks prior to election so as to counteract the personal canvass of his opponent and the slanders fulminated against him, he could have turned the tide and been elected.

The Phœnix Debating Club at the Union school has about forty members, and is doing good work this term. A good debating society is worth as much to any young man or woman as any other department of the school, if not more.

There will be an oyster supper in the lecture room of the Baptist church, Friday eve. Nov. 19th, for the benefit of the church fund. The ladies' Society having this in charge will furnish oysters and many other good things for the small sum of twenty-five cents. Come have a good time and help a good cause.

One of the happy features of the Garfield jubilation was the illumination of the houses of Republicans all through the city. No residence displayed more taste and pains than that of Col. Lee. In front were a large number of Chinese lanterns, and a beautiful flag, upon which was inscribed Garfield and Arthur.

Where is the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals? It is wanted. A calf was tied in the old cemetery or near there all through the storm of last Sunday, covered in snow and nothing but snow for its bed. It would seem most too bad to give the owner similar treatment, but it would be a just retribution.

Last Sunday, on account of the Light Guard hall being disarranged, the reform meeting was not held. To-morrow afternoon, at three o'clock, Mr. H. B. Norton, recently of Hiram, Ohio, will address the Club. The hall will be cleaned and put in good order for the meeting. Turn out.

In this week's issue will be found an advertisement of the Toledo steam laundry company. They have a first class reputation. The Lansing Journal says: At first blush it might seem a little out of the way to go to Toledo to get your washing done, but cheap postage and cheap express rates make Toledo a neighboring town, and it will be noticed that this house solicits orders by mail and express.

FIFTEEN CENT TEA PARTY.—W. C. T. U. will give a tea party on Tuesday, Nov. 16th, from five to seven p.m., at their room in Union block. This will afford business men and others an opportunity to vary home life by taking their families out to tea, and thus help along a good cause. We hope to entertain pleasantly all guests who will favor us with their presence.

J. L. Stone has rented the Follett house, giving possession the 1st of next May. Meanwhile he has closed it for repairs. The 1st of May he resumes hotel business at Manchester. The Follett house has been occupied for hotel purposes about 20 years. It is for sale. It is elligibly located. $2,000 would make it as of yore, one of the best in the state.

THE OCTOGENARIANS VOTE RIGHT.—One of the marked features of the election was, in the 3rd ward, Father Timothy Showerman, 84 years old, putting the first ballot in the box for Garfield. Next Rev. C. A. Lamb 81. In the 4st ward among the first was Dr. S. W. Pattison 83. Each voted a straight ticket. They are all members of churches from early youth. These moral forces in church and state will soon pass away. They each one felt that they had voted the last time for president. No parties in this city rejoiced more at the result, feeling like Simeon of old, "now lettest Thou Thy servants depart in peace, for our eyes have seen Thy salvation."

The Philp perjury is exciting a greater sensation than ever. The two witnesses for the defence, who swore that they knew H. L. Morey, and that a Mr. Goodell was admistrator of the estate, and the letter was found among his effects after death, are proved perjurers by Mr. Goodell, who knew no such party, and never acted as administrator. The relatives made oath that they never had a relative of that name. Both the perjured witnesses were arrested, and with state prison staring them in the face have made a confession that condemns to everlasting infamy the Democratic National committee. It shows a conspiracy to defeat Gen. Garfield by fraud, in which the democratic managers of the campaign were active partners.

We are indebted to Mr. J. A. Hayton, Niles, for the South Bend Daily Tribune. It's election picture gallery is novel.

Every Saturday has enlarged and changed its form to a four page folio, a much more desirable shape both for readers and advertizers. We are glad to record the success of Mr. Moore and partner in this new field of journalism. It is to all intents a readable, spicy and first-class society paper. An addition has been made to the name, now Detroit Every Saturday.

HAVERLY'S GREAT MINSTREL BOOM.

Next to election, Haverly is just now in everybody's mouth. Rumors of his visit have been rife for weeks, but it was not until two days ago that the matter took form and the dead walls of the city began to be decorated. According to the Chicago papers, Mr. Haverly's New Mastodon Minstrel eclipses its predecessor as two to one. His motto, "Everything new," begins with the rising of the curtain, which discloses a beautiful transformation scene, similar to that used in the spectacular drama. Mr. Haverley's wonderful success with his former Mastodon, seems to have instilled new energy even into his fertile brain, and he organizes his new company upon a scale of magnificence which astonishes all his menagerie and professional friends no less than it does the public at large. In a conversation with his agent that gentleman said, "when organizing Mr. Haverly received propositions from artists who were skeptical at his former venture. People who believed the company was too large and expensive, now throng to his standard until choice became so difficult that Mr. Haverly concluded to take them all." There are sixty people on the pay roll, over fifty of whom figure prominently in the performance. Mr. Haverly yesterday telegraphed his agent to advise people generally and ladies in particular to secure their seats in advance. The experience of the past two years with the former Mastodons, although greatly inferior in strength and talent, shows that thousands were disappointed by not taking this precaution. Mr. Haverly permits no extra charge, and as the crowd is always large, visitors will at least greatly facilitate admission by buying early. At the opera house Wednesday the 17th. Every family, without exception, in city, village, and country, will find it highly useful to constantly read the American Agriculturist, it abounds in plain, practical, reliable information, most valuable for in-door as well as out-door work and comfort, and its 800 or 1,000 original engravings in every volume are both pleasing and instructive. In this respect it is pre-eminent and stands alone, and should have a place in every household, no matter how many other journals are taken. Its illustrated department for youth and children contains much information as well as amusement. Its humbug exposures are invaluable to all classes. The cost is very low, only $1.50 from now to the end of 1881, or four copies for $5. Single numbers 15 cents. One specimen 6 cents. Take our advice and subscribe now for volume 40 (1881). ELECTION REMINSCENCES.

In 1864 McClellan had 204 majority in this county. He had in this city 76.

In 1868, Seymour had 19 majority over Grant. The first ward gave 15 majority for Seymour. Third ward, Grant 63 majority, one less than last Tuesday. The Fourth ward gave Grant 4 majority. Fifth ward, Seymour 94, four less than now.

In 1872, Grant had over Greeley and all the other crowd 212. But this year the democrats did not vote. In 1874 the city was 57 Democratic. In 1876 the city gave Tilden 34 majority. Capt. Allen had in first ward 30, second ward 48, third ward 74. Hayes first 38, second 44, third 59, a gain of five over four years ago, for Garfield, fourth Tilden 47, fifth 130, a gain for Hancock of nine in the fourth and a loss of 32 in the fifth.

In 1876 the town gave 76 for Hayes, this year 58, a loss of 18 votes. Sixteen Republicans failed to vote. If all the Republicans had voted the party would have held its own. The first ward has been changed to Republican mainly through the collord vote. The second has constantly increased its Republican majorities. The third has bravely held its own. The fourth for many years was reliably democratic. It became Republican for three or four years and then backslid. The Democratic vote in the fifth ward seems to be gradually decreasing.

A SAD FATE.

Mrs. Owen Kirk was drowned last Saturday. She resides in the first ward. She set out about noon Saturday, to secure some money from her husband. On her way to the mills she was met by Mr. Martin Cremer also Peter Myers. She did not reach the mills. Her husband came home at night and was alarmed at her disappearance, search was made in vain. Sunday afternoon Mr. Weed was passing by the narrow road across a swamp between the mills and Lowell bridge when the thought struck him of an accident there a few weeks since, a span of horses got off from the road, wagon and all went pell mell down the bank, being several feet to the water. Looking over the embankment he saw what he supposed was a horse blanket. It proved to be the body of Mrs. Kirk. It stormed fearfully and it is supposed that the poor woman being near the bank lost her foot hold and fell down. So sudden a fall and face especially in the water, and mud about fifteen inches deep caused her to seize with a deathly grasp the reeds, and thus she strangled to death. The curiosity is that she was evidently on her way home, as if she had been to the mill, and her shawl and bonnet were a piece away toward the mill from the body. There was an empty bottle lying near. Mrs. K. has been a hard drinker for sometime past and this fact no doubt explains the cause of her strange conduct and death. A Corners Jury was summoned before Justice Skinner composed of Messrs J. F. Chidister, G. W. Kishler, Geo. Palmer, Henry Miller, Byron Hutchinson and James Nellis. The verdict was accidental drowning.

REMINISCENCES OF THE LATE CAMPAIGN.

Among the speeches that of Congressman Brewer will be specially remembered. Congressman Willets made an able speech, dealing sledge hammer blows. It was instructive.

The last gathering will not soon be forgotten. It was presided over by that capital chairman, Col. Lee. Capt. Allen's speech was one that will ring in the memory. It found an echo in responsive hearts, peculiarly adapted to the occasion.

Among the many parties who have made successful chairmen of city committees the palm is borne away by Dr. W. H. Hall. He was constantly on the alert. He made the best methods of success a study, was unwearied in executing his plans. He raised and expended over $250. Not a bill goes unpaid. Every claim handsomely met. A republican gain of 75 over 1876 is praise enough. The doctor deserves and has the thanks of the republicans of this city.

The superb closing of the rejoicing meeting at the Opera house last week, Friday evening, was a fiting adjunct of a splendid triumph. The house was crowded from dome to pit. Dr. Webb who presided, was at his best—introducing his speakers with keen, apt, pithy remarks. We were not present until Capt. Allen had nearly closed his speech, but were told that Rev. Dan. Shier of Saline, made a telling speech. Capt. Allen shook up the house by the remark "The democratic party and I got a sound thrashing." As in his speech before the election he gave the saloon vagabonds something to chew. At the close of his speech the audience arose and gave him three rousing cheers. Sen. Baldwin made a practical speech, commenting upon the big gains won two years ago, scarcely 12,000 plurality then, now over 50,000 plurality, and 30,000 over everything. Michigan republicanism has been staunch and true ever since 1854.

Hon. S. M. Cutcheon was greeted as an old friend on the platform. He stated that it was nearly a quarter of a century since he had made his maiden political speech in Ypsilanti. On account of ill health he had made no speeches in the last campaign, and it was too late to begin now. In his judgment one of the most satisfactory features of the contest is the fact that the thoughtful democrats were well pleased with the result.

D. B. Greene made one of the best speeches of the evening. He handled the democratic corpse cautiously, but left it sunk in a deep well, remarkably active for one that has tumbled in so often. He augured auspicious results from the victory. Dr. Webb called for three cheers for Sen. Baldwin, and they were given with a will. The band played a stirring air, and the glee club sang—

"My country 'tis of thee, Sweet land of liberty."

and thus concluded the momentous campaign of 1880 in Ypsilanti.

THE WOMAN'S CHRISTIAN TEMPERANCE UNION.

From the Dexter Leader.

The Woman's Temperance Union of Washtenaw county met in the Reform hall on Wednesday, at 10 a.m., and was called to order by the vice-president, Mrs. Ida Cheshire. The first half-hour was spent in religious exercises conducted by Mrs. Turner. After the organization of the meeting the first business was the report of the committees. Mrs. Pope reported for Saline that their Union R. R. Club and Band of Hope were all in a healthful and prosperous condition. Mrs. Turner reported for Ypsilanti that the Union was not large but doing well. The Band of Hope under the leadership of Mrs. McAndrew was doing a good work for the children. The R. R. Club was not as prosperous as could be wished. After some remarks by the president, Mrs. Ida F. Cheshire, the meeting adjourned till 2 P.M.

The society meet at 2 P.M., and spent the first half hour in devotional exercises. The meeting was then called to order. Mrs. A. C. Clark, vice-president, in the chair. The address of welcome was made by Mrs. T. C. Etchell of Dexter, and responded to by Mrs. Pope of Saline. Mrs. Pope, Sutton, Bassett, Frazer and Copeland, were appointed a committee on resolutions. The reports from societies were then resumed. Dexter reported, Union, 15 working members, a R. R. Club, and a Band of Hope suspended on account of the ill health and absence of Mrs. Stannard. There being no representatives from other Unions the society proceeded to discuss the constitutional amendments, home protection, etc. The discussion showed considerable difference of opinion, even among the ladies, but everything passed off plesantly, and the society adjourned with prayer until 9½ P. M. Thursday morning. There was a mass meeting in the evening. Mrs. McAndrews made the principal address. Her subject was the education of children in temperance principles. She was followed in a short address by Rev. W. J. Campbell. He agreed with Mrs. McA. in the importance of training up children in the way they should go and gave a number of interesting instances of the effect of such training. We noticed that all the incidents related by both speakers were of family or home training, and herein is a lesson which in this day of reforms parents are very apt to overlook.

Thursday, 9½ P.M. After the devotional exercises, Mrs. McAndrews addressed the meeting on how to interest children, and was followed on the same subject by several others. A deep and earnest feeling was manifested during these addresses. A letter was received from Mrs. Rulison in regard to the state temperance paper, the STATE UNION, the report of the treasurer was received, and the meeting adjourned until 2 P.M.

The afternoon was spent in approving the report of the treasurer, in passing a vote of thanks to the ladies of Dexter Union for their kindness and entertainment, in hearing the report of the committee on resolutions and electing officers.

The election resulted as follow: President, Mrs. D. S. Wood, of Ann Arbor Vice President, Mrs. Turner, of Ypsilanti; Secretary, of Saline; Treasurer, Mrs. R. E. Frazer, of Ann Arbor.

The resolutions are as follows:

1. Resolved, That realizing that God is our helper and strength, we will not fail constantly to wait on him in prayer for the success of our cause.

2. Believing that children receive impressions more readily than adults, and that women are especially and pre-eminently placed in the relation of teachers towards them, and are to a great extent responsible for their moral education, therefore, Resolved, That we pledge ourselves as mothers and christians to labor with unwearied effort for their true temperance education.

3. Resolved, That we sympathize with the effort now making for the obtaining of a constitutional amendment prohibiting the manufacturing and sale of intoxicating liquors and pledge our best efforts in its aid.

3. Resolved, That we recognize the great danger resulting from the use of alcohol as a medicine, and feel greatly encouraged by the noble efforts of those physicians who have taken a decided stand against it. We also express our pleasure at the action of the Homeopathic State Medical Association, held in May last, in resolving that the use of alcohol as a medicine is unnecessary and dangerous.

After prayer and singing the convention adjourned for one year, the next annual meeting to be held in Saline.

The attendance was not large but the meetings were throughout interesting and instructive, and no doubt a good impression was made, and all who attended will return to their benevolent work with new strength and zeal. The ladies of Dexter exerted themselves to their utmost to make the visit of their sisters from other places an agreeable occasion, and if there is any reliance to be placed on looks and expressions they succeeded to perfection.

OBITUARY.

Hewens, Mrs. Janet, died October 18th, 1880, of cancer, at the age of 68 years. She was born at Dalrymple, Ayrshire, Scotland. came to America in 1842, married the late Jessie Hewens in 1843, who went before her to "our Father's house" in 1876. She has resided in Augusta for the last forty years where she and her husband by industry and economy had accumulated comfortable surroundings. It was her misfortune to see her home destroyed by the flames a few days before her death, but looking for a more enduring substance and a better country she bore it cheerfully. Sister Hewens was for a long time a worthy member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, where she was much esteemed. She lived and died in the full triumph of the christian faith, which she had kept from her youth. Her faithful life bore an influence for good which will long live after her. She leaves three worthy sons to mourn her loss, whose happy lot it will ever be to cherrish the memories of a worthy, consistent christian mother. W. E. D.

THANKSGIVING.

The Presidents' Proclamation Fixing the Anniversary on the Twenty-Fifth of November.

ABy the president of the United States of merica.

A PROCLAMATION.

At no period in their history since the United States became a nation has this people had so abundant and so universal reasons for joy and gratitude at the favor of Almighty God or been subject to so profound an obligation to give thanks for His loving kindness and humbly to implore His continued care and protection. Health, wealth and prosperity throughout all our borders; peace, honor and friendship with all the world; firm and faithful adherence by the great body of our population to the principles of liberty and justice which have made our greatness as a nation and to the wise institutions and strong frame of government and the society which will perpetuate it, for all these let the thanks of a happy and united people, as with one voice, ascend in devout homage to the Giver of all good. I therefore recommend that on Thursday, the 25th day of November next, the people meet in their respective places of worship to make the acknowledgement to Almighty God for His bounties and His protection, and to offer to Him prayer for their continuance.

In witness hereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this first day of November, in the year of Our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty, and the Independence of the United States the hundred and fifth. R. B. HAYES.

Joe. T. Jacobs ran seventy-eight ahead of his ticket in Dexter.

40,000 for Jerome is what strikes the liquor dealers dumb.

Garfield will have 214 electoral votes, Hancock 155.

Grant can say more in five minutes than most platform speakers in a half day.

The South will now understand that a Solid South means a Solid North, every time.

The fourth Congressional District of Iowa gave 16000 majority for Garfield. First Kansas District gave him 20,000.

Agustus H. Pettibone, Republican, elected from the first Congressional District of Tennessee, is a graduate of our University.

Among the first after the election to call upon Hancock was McClellen, who had been there once upon a time himself.

The Republicans have a majority of nine on joint ballot in the Legislature of California. That secures a Republican successor to Senator Booth.

Congressman Willets is elected by 2,000 plurality. Hillsdale gave him 2,412 majority, Lenawee 887, Monroe gave Walby 689, and Washtenaw 617. The greenbackers got 914 votes.

What "329" meant. We have the solution now. Washtenaw county gives Hancock 329 majority. The Democratic press boasted that they were going to have 700 or 800. Judge Harriman did have 699 and Holloway 620.

The publisher of a paper in this city claims to be a warm friend of R. B. Clark, the clerk elect. He made haste to publish a pure fabrication, which, if true, was calculated to deprive Mr Clark of votes. Mr. Clark says: "Deliver me from such friends." Read the article from the Register in another column.

The following communication came too late for publication last week:

SHARON, CONN., Nov. 3d, 1880.

FRIEND PATTISON:

This finds me close by the Boss Barnum's home. His mules have all got sick and left him in the mud. Poor Hancock! I hope Allen is all right. Everything looks bright. F. W. CLEAVELAND.

The south don't relish being whipped and are proposing to abandom the Democratic corpse, but the Northern Democrats seem to like a thrashing and the leaders are crying "Hold on, the corpse may come to life." Young man, you will grow gray and be in your grave, and likewise your children and children's children, and the so called Democratic party will still be an unburied corpse—a stench in the nostrils of the American people.

Edgar K. Apgar, a member of the Democratic State Committee, (New York) scouts the idea of counting New York for Hancock. He says that over 20,000 individual cases of fraud would have to be looked up. He says that neither the State or National Committess have taken any action in the matter and are not such fools as to propose to do so. The fact is that the election in New York city this year has been the only fair and honest election in twenty years and this is what hits Tammany right between the eyes.

"Trying to explain to each other 'just how it happened, you see.' They are unanimous upon one point: That the 'independent' newspaper and those 'prominent Republicans' are an unmitigated fraud, and that next time they will select a candidate with more brains and less mouth."—Sentinel.

Exactly. It was a so-called independent paper, a misnomer, that published a fabrication, with the sole intent, however much disavowed or smoothed over, to defeat Everett B. Clark. Mr. Clark says "the more of such dear friends the worse for me; 'Good Lord deliver us.'"

Young man, look around you and see where the moral power of this nation lies. Of the ministers of the gospel in all protestant denominations nineteen-twentieths are republicans and of the one-twentieth you will invariably find a screw loose in their character. Seven eights of the members of protestant churches are republicans, a big majority of the moral temperance men outside the churches are republicans. Go to New York and other cities and you find the class termed "slums" are democrats. The great middle classes, the thinking, intelligent, reading, the class that make up the civilization of the age trains in the Republican party. Young man think on these things and see where your conscience and manhood directs you?

The defeat of Capt. Allen for the Legislature has created a good deal of talk. It has been laid to whiskey and the Grange. The first was potent no doubt. Upon investigation we are satisfied that the Grange, as an orginization had nothing whatever to do with it. The majority of the Grangers in the district voted for Mr. Allen. Individual Republican members voted against him on the same ground that a Baptist might do so and not involve the church But these few were not actuated by Grange considerations. The fact is Mr. King made a personal canvass and the result proved an effective one. There was a medley of circumstances that co operated. The anti-Beal sentiment, embracing seven-eights of the voters of the district, were soured to say the least. The farmers were easily influenced to vote for a farmer candidate. Temperance men voted against him because he had not done enough to meet their views, and the liquor intetest because he had done too much. We are informed that the band, under a misapprehension, with no just grounds whatever, did what they could to defeat him. But the captain is whole in heart and soul and "will live to fight another day." His honor and manhood is unstained. With no grudges to cherish, and no enemies to punish, he will stand among the foremost of our public men.

California gives five electoral vote to Hancock and one to Garfield. The legislature is republican, securing a republican senator.

SEN. BALDWIN.

When Sen. Chandler died the question arose not only as to the Senate of the United States, but also chairman of the State Central Committee where and in whom can the republicans of Michigan find a suitable successor? Sen. Chandler was chiefly noted for his matchless business qualities, which were carried into and made a leading requsite in political life. Similar talents were needed. Gov. Crosswell marked the man and chose him as the successor of the lamented dead, a man of large business qualifications and equally with Mr. Chandler notably successful. Twice he had been elected Governor of this great state and no incumbent achieved greater popularity. The State Convention chose this man to step into Sen. Chandler's shoes, as chairman of the Republican hosts and lead them on to victory. This he has done and a victory of like magnitude under all the circumstances has never been gained by any party in the State. The fruit is an almost unanimous state legislature, a solid delegation to congress, an unprecedented majority of over 50,000 in the popular vote, and this won without any of the famous orators from a broad. He has quietly done his work in the Senate and if not equal in national fame to his predecessor, he has far surpassed Mr. Christiancy, and no Michigan representative for so brief a period has done better. We are quite assured that the Republicans of Michigan will say "keep on doing so well in the position the Governor wisely chose you to fill."

In the second representative district unofficial returns give Kinne 1,804; Vanatta, 1,114; Lane, 232; Kinne's plurality, 690. In the first district, King receives 1,631 and Allen 1, 557; King's plurality, 74. Gorman is elected in the third district by about 600 majority.

Hancock may be a good soldier, but he certainly is no politician. His tariff letter in which he denounced free trade and talked of protection as a "local issue," was probably the most stupid production ever presented in a presidential campaign. It silenced the Western Democrats who have been preaching free trade since the days of Polk, and put to confusion the small but energetic band in the east, of which Mr. David A. Wells is the head and front. With the platform declaring for "a tariff for revenue only," and their candidate coming out flat-footed for protection, the Democrats found themselves terribly handicapped. To make the matter worse, ex-Senator Barnum, who managed the campaign, was a disastrous failure. Garfield may not be immaculate, but the slander and "roorbacks" levelled at him were so gross and monstrous that probably tens of thousands of people voted for him from sheer sympathy. The Chinese letter and the credit mobilier and De Golyer yarns were the entire capital and the only principles of the Democratic party, now as demoralized and bankrupt a body as the reform faction in this country.—Toronto Mail.

President Hayes, in response to a toast by the business man's club of Cleaveland says:

It has been my firm purpose to do that which appeared to be for the good of the whole country, and that of each and all of its inhabitants. I have believed that the principles of the Republican party were so just and so generally wholesome that whatever was done for the true welfare of the country would tend to the estrblishment of those principles in public estimation. I have acted in strict accordance with my belief, heretofore expressed, that that which best serves our country, serves best our party. I rejoice that at the close of my term of office, or so near the close that my successor has been elected, my friends are able to feel that, in strictly doing that which seemed for the interest of the whole country, I have to some extent at least promoted the success of the Republican party. I am glad to be able to feel that the principle is established that the man who thinks what is best and will at the same time do what is best for all the people, will also be doing the best for the Republican party.

HORR AT SAGINAW.

Extracts of His Speech at the East Saginaw Jollification Meeting.

This victory has not been won on account of any particular man. The work that I have done in this campaign has not been of a personal nature. Every speech that I have made in this district has been for the purpose of calling Democrats to repentance and making good Republicans of them. [Laughter.] I have aimed simply to convert men from their sins and have them join the grand old Republican party of this nation, knowing that every lick I struck in that way would redound to the benefit of our party in this district, and hence would aid me in the end. While our opponents have been manufacturing slander and lies, we have been manufacturing republicans, and that is what has beaten the Democracy in this district.

I think no man rejoices more over this victory than I do myself. [Laughter and applause.] I think I have a right to rejoice and be exceeding glad; and if I have any duty to perform more sacred than another it is to give the Democrats of this district a little wholesome advice. [Laughter and applause.] To the Democracy of the Eighth District then, I would say: Hereafter, if you have any principles, fight your battles for them; if you have none then die quietly, and lie down to your final rest.

The spirit of the southern democracy does not suit us. But the northern democracy has a good deal of the same spirit. It is that brutal spirit which attacks men's personal character, as they have done that of James A. Garfield, as they have also attacked me. This is a method peculiar to the democracy. The same element that writes "329" on churches and on the residences of our decent people is the same spirit that hangs negroes and burns their cabins down. [Cheers.]

There is no doubt about it. And I say to-night, that one of the most fearful objections to the democracy of this country is the methods they adopt. They don't run their campaigns with brains. They run them with malice and meanness. Look at a party that will resort to the forgery of such a letter as the Chinese letter, and that thinks they gain success by such villainy. Think of a party so destitute of moral convictions that after the forgery has been proved it will print such lies and circulate them at midnight all over the land as they have done here in this Eighth district of ours.

Now, fellow citizens, the triumph we rejoice over to-night, is a triumph of decency over that kind of campaigning. It is a triumph of order over disorder, of intelligence over modern democracy.

I have no malice against the southern men, not a particle. When I told them in the first remarks I made in Congress "to go home and raise more horses and hogs and less hell," I gave them good advice and if they had taken it the Democrats might not be weeping and wailing all over this land to-night. But instead of accepting this advice and profiting by it, they went back and raised more hell and less hogs and horses, [laughter] and the people of the North have called them to account for it.

I was thinking to-night as I thought over the events of the campaign, of a private conversation I had on the floor of the house with Mr. Tucker of Virginia. It was a night after one of the free trade efforts of his to cripple the industries of the North. He is a free trader from principle. He is not like my friend Tarnsey who is a protectionist from policy—He believes in free trade. I said to him, "Mr. Tucker, every time you bring this question up, and your party votes solid against the industries of the North, you are driving a nail in the head of the coffin of the Democratic party. And so it has turned out, and that nail is now driven and clinched in this land of ours, and the people have decided that the great industries of this land shall ke kept in the hands of a party who knows how to protect them. [Applause.] I congratulate you, laboring men of this valley, on the manner in which you have come to the rescue.

Before I close, I must say a word to the young men of this city. To you, my young friends, we owe more than to any other agency for this splendid victory. [Applause.] You gave the campaign an impetus that it could not have received in any other manner, and I wish now to thank every young man for the course he took in this campaign Your work has been a splendid one. Long may you live to rejoice over it, and I hope that no young workman who has engaged in this glorious work will ever go back on the principles of this party, our grand old party, for I say to you my young friend, that the Republican party is worth sticking to for life. The men who have left it in this country may have left it for the party's good, but it has always been for their own ruin. That is the history of political renegades in this country.

From Our Washington Correspondent.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., November, 1880.

MR. EDITOR:—

The people of the loyal North marched boldly to the discharge of their highest duty on election day, under the smiles of providence who vouchsafed a balmy air and golden sunshine, shimering with the autumnal hase of an Indian Summer day. Never were citizens of any land called to duties more solemn, momentous or exalted. Right well and nobly was the battle fought and a long drawn sigh of relief burst forth from every patriotic heart when the work was done, as the news of victory came flashing over the electric wires. It was the fall of Richmond and the surrender of Appomatox repeated again, fifteen years after those notable events. It was a reconsecration to loyalty and to God, made by a people who know what sacrifices mean, and who have a keen appreciation ot the glorious thing it is for men to die for country, and yet think it not less noble to live, act, and vote, so that the country itself may not die. To the world it presented the spectacle of a great loyal people, riding upon the topmost wave of commercial prosperity, the like of which was never known, speaking in a voice louder than booming cannon or surging waves of old ocean—saying labor shall be respected, the freedman shall be guaranteed every right that every other man has, and by the Eternal, he shall vote and that vote shall be counted; if he is murdered, his murderer shall be punished; he shall be helped in his education by the government in his efforts to fit himself for citizenship; in short, it was the loyal people of the North, in the presence of the memories of the loyal dead, reaffirming their devotion to the Union and all the holy principles for which their heroic martyrs gave up their precious lives.

The rejoicing here at the Capital over results have been manifest eveywhere. Even the honest Democrats admit that on the whole it is vastly better for the country that the healthy condition of public affairs now existing should not be interfered with by any change of policy.

This campaign has been carried by the most persistent kind of effort. The country can never know the amount of work that has been done here at the Capital by the National Congressional Committee under the direction of its cool and deliberate chairman, the Hon. J. A. Hubbel, of Michigan, who seems to have fallen heir to the sagacity and political accumen of the lamented Senator Chandler.

The chief of the Bureau of Statistics finds an illustration of the old statement, "Westward the star of empire takes its way," in the fact that during three months, ending Sept. 30th, 154,832 immigrants arrived at our ports, being an overplus of 86,181 over the same period of last year. During the same months this year 8,862 visited this country. The immigrants, for the most part, are in possession of means sufficient to establish themselves in business or purchase homes and thus the country is becoming enriched, not only in its labor but in its material wealth. These new comers buy through tickets in every country in Europe to their place of destination in Kansas, New Mexico, Texas, Dakota, or any other portion of the West. With stability in governmental affairs, every foot of available land in our heretofore American desert will be utilized and occupied before the great honr hand on our dial plate of destiny, shall have tolled off the close of the 19th century. With such a prospect before us, with what confidence we may weave the warp and woof of our opening blossoms into a future of accomplishments, such as never was dreamed of by our fathers.

Washington Monument is now being pushed foward towards completion. A meeting of the Society was held a few days since on top of the monument, 184 feet in height—fourteen feet higher than when the work was recommenced. Three courses of marble and backing were taken off at the start, and replaced with new, making altogether twenty feet of new work.

COUNTY, STATE, AND GENERAL NEWS.

BELLEVILLE.

The elections in this place, which included the voters of the township of Van Buren, passed off very quietly, proving beyond a doubt that if liquor was banished from our town, we would have very peaceable and law abiding citizens. Whole number of votes cast 432, democratic 329, republican 146, greenbackers 4. A little discrepency in counting somewhere. One man Murray offered his vote $1.50 He found a purchaser, and in the evening the same man stole a coat belonging to Mr. Lobdell. He was arrested and arrainged before Justice Kenney. Have not heard the result. In the evening eight or ten of our citizens went to Ypsilanti to hear the returns. Either the returns or the whiskey had a bad effect, for only three of the party reached home that night. Need hardly add that a Republican can be distinguished from a Democratic as far as you can see him. We can't help expressing some sympathy for a man who was here on Monday with Greenback tickets for distribution on Tuesday. But could not find a man to do the work, and the tickets lay on table without being distributed.

The first accident at the crossing of the railroad bridge occurred on Sunday evening a young man by the name of Fullmore was driving by when his horse frightened at the cars, throwing the young man out, breaking his leg and demolishing the buggy. The broken limb was dressed by Dr. D. Forbes.

From the Register.

Geo. Moorman to Eliza A. Collins, land on Congress st., Ypsilanti; $360.

Henry Wessel to H. C. Waldron, land in section 24, Salem; $250

F. A. Graves to M. R. Osborn, 40 acres, sec. 6 Augusta. $1,000.

Ann M. Skinner to George Moorman, land on Congress St., Ypsilanti; $500.

John Young to Jesse Young, land in sec. 26, Ypsilanti town, $3,000.

Daniel Calkins to Edith P. Begole, land on Chidester street, Ypsilanti, $400.

L C. Allen to David Craig, 40 acres, sec. 27, York, $1,000.

One of the most outrageous slanders circulated by the Democrats on the eve of election, with a view to injure the Republican nominee for county clerk, was the attempt to implicate the deputy clerk, L. F. Wade, in the alledged conspiracy of certain constables to defraud the county by charging illegal fees. The Democrat well knowing the charges to be unfounded, did not choose to take the responsibility of circulating them on its own authority and accordingly adopted the sneaking course of printing them in the form of an anonymous communication. In Ypsilanti two "reliable Democrats" who were doubtless ashamed to have their names known, informed the Ypsilantian that Mr. Wade was, "in some way" implicated in the alleged fraud of the constables. The slightest investigation must have proved the charges to be maliciously false. The only foundation for them, and it can hardly be termed such, is simply this, policeman Porter brought the book in which he kept his accounts, to Mr. Wade and asked him to copy them, so that they might be presented to the board, in proper form, Porter not being much of a penman. Mr. Wade performed the service for him gratuitiously. Another clerk in the office read the entries from the account book while he copied them. Porter then swore to the correctness of the bill before Mr. Wade as he might have done before any other notary public. This is the sum and substance of the whole matter. The supervisers do not suppose for a moment that Mr. Wade is or could be responsible for Porter's charges, whether correct or otherwise. All the supervisor's whom the Register has questioned about the matter, pronounce the attempt to implicate Mr. Wade as most outrageously false, and without any foundation.

The Democratic party has no policy—except to get the Republicans out. A perverse man is preferable to a stupid man. It is better to have mistaken ideas than not to have any ideas. Imperfect reasoning is safer than dishonest reasoning. According to the same kind of logic the Republican party is better than the Democratic party. There have been times when we felt disposed to question the judgment of the popular verdict. We can see no reason for so doing in this particular instance.—Chicago Times.

The Greenback vote in this county for congressman is 475. Two years ago it was 5,836. Good times had much to do with the falling off, but there is no doubt that the large sized boots, and small sized hats, worn by the present managers of that party contributed largely to the same general result.—Wayne County Courier.

In Iowa, where republicans are as thick as flies about molasses, or bummers about an election barrel, they don't take kindly to the suggestion that the democrats join the republican party en masse. The Burlington Hawkeye says: "No, no, brethren; that won't do. We can't consent to take the whole democratic party on board. But see here, we will compromise. There isn't room for all. We will cull out from your stock the best you have, and take that. You have so me mighty nice fellows in your ranks. They ought to come into the republican lines, and some of them are seriously thinking of coming. Now is a good time to make a break. Come now, and we will share our rejoicings and gladness with you and treat you kindly, and make grand American citizens of you. But please don't bring the whole family.

The Solid North says to the Solid South, "Let us have peace on the basis of a righteous justice."

Garfield carries Wayne county by 1,117 in a vote of 32,309. Tilden carried the county in 1876 by 2,500 in a vote of 27,606.

Democrats who are in need of consolation in this trying hour should purchase copies of the New York Sun, Cincinnati Enquirer, Louisville Courier Journal and Atlanta Constitution, all good Democratic papers.

There are reasons for believing that the democratic party has fought its last great campaign.

He who sets about finding the causes of yesterday's result will be embarrassed by their number. First and foremost is the solid south. The people of the north, who are largely in the majority in the nation at large, view with no feelings of approval the union of the southern section, and the possible dominance of that section in the counsels of a political party having control of the policy of the nation. The northern people have had an unfavorable experience with the political and commercial methods of the southern section of the Union. It is not strange that the people of the north should regard their own ideas as a good deal better than southern ideas, and their own civilization as a little higher than the southern civilization, when they see land just north of the line between Iowa and Missouri, for instance, selling for $20 acre, while equally good land just across the line in Missouri sells for $10. The people of the north can not be blamed for regarding their methods as a little better than those of their southern neighbors when the latter are unable to utilize their magnificent natural resources to any advantage. Besides, they suspect the honesty of the southern abandonment of certain pernicious doctrines when their statesmen go around prating that they are still contending for the principles for which Lee and Jackson fought.

Besides the solid south, the Democratic party may find one cause for its defeat in the cowardice which it has displayed in treating every great issue for the defense of which the people have looked to it. It has been afraid to take up popular issues, and has been bold only in defending ideas which the people utterly repudiated. It has taken to its heels when it has been called upon to advocate the revenue tariff, which it had itself demanded in its platform, and it has made a great defense of the shadowy ghost of the state rights, the sight of which gibbering spectre only disgusts the people.

Another cause of the crushing defeat was the resort to contemptible campaign devices, by which the party seemed to confess that it had no nobler arguments to urge.

Another cause, was Bill English.—Chicago Times.

Wednesday afternon occurred one of those sad accidents which happens in this community nearly every year. Samuel Reisig had started with his cousin, Henry Reisig, for a few days duck shooting in the marsh, and, while sitting in the stern end of the boat, he took hold of his gun to raise it from the bottom [redacted] when the hammer caught [redacted] using its accidental [redacted] ing his forehe[redacted] He was brought [redacted] where he arrived [redacted] could be done for him, a[redacted] o'clock. This is only anoth[redacted] of what the careless use of fire[redacted] will lead to. Year after year some accident of this kind, resulting from the the very same cause, happens in the Monroe marshes, causing the loss of life or limb without in the least serving to check the carelessness which is so common.—Monroe Commercial.

The grading of the Toledo, Ann Arbor and Grand Trunk Railway is almost completed. The filling in at the bridge and a few hundred yards in Dunns woods, just west of this city, is all that remain to be done. The putting in of the switches was begun last week. The next consignment of iron will be to this city, and the track laying will be commenced both here and at Pontiac, on the 15th inst., and pushed forward rapidly from both ends of the road. Good wages are offered and all the men it is possible to get will be employed—one dollar and sixty cents per day is paid for track layers. The bridge in this city over the Huron, is competed. Unless snowed in the road will be running to Pontiac by January 1.—Ann Arbr Register.

YOUNG SAWBOIES.

Some young surgeons when accidents happen
In order their great skill to show,
Cut the leg off close to the thih,
When they only should cut off the toe;
Like cutting off a dog's tail by the ears,
Or the skinning alive of the frg,
It's all very well for a surgical ese,
But devilish tough on the dog.
'Tis much better by far when you're wounded,
Or have either Cut, Bruise or Burn,
To find Eclectic Oil is the very best thing,
And it won't take you long to earn.
Eclectric Oil Pragrapher.

THE POPULAR DEMAND.

So great has been the popular demand for the celebrated remedy KidneyWort, that it is having an immense sale from Maine to California. Some have found it inconvenient to prepare it from the dry compound. For such the proprietors now prepare it in liquid form. This can be procured at the druggists. It has precisely the same effect as the dry, but is very concentated so that the dose is much smaller.—Lowl Mail.

"I AM ALL PLAYED OUT"

is a common complaint. If you feel so, get a package of Kidney-Wort ad take it and you will at once feel its toic power. It renews the healthy action of the Kidneys, bowels and liver, and thus retores the natural life and strength to the wary body. It can now be had in either dry o liquid form, and in either way is always prmpt and efficent in action.—New Bedford Sundard.

FIRE! FIRE! FIRE.

The man who tried to build a fire with wet wood, acts in a damp fuel-ish manner, and is as bad as a man refusing to take Spring Blossom when his face is covered with pimples and he's suffering from Indigestion, Billiousness and Dyspepsia. Prices: 50c., trial bottles 10c. Sold by F. Ingram.

From the Courier.

The Garfield electoral ticket had 172 majority in this city. The liquor interests cut Mr. Jerome's majority down to 32.

E. D. Kinnie is the champion runner. He had over 600 majority in this city alone. Frank Emerick 510 majority in this city.

The board of supervisors have again established the office of drain commissioner, and have appointed Frederick Schaible, of Manchester, to fill the position.

Washtenaw county isn't as surely solid for the Democrats as she used to be. There seems to be a mighty reduction from the 600 or 800 majority claimed a few months ago.

The editor of the Ypsilanti Sentinel threatens to leave that place unless better supported, whereupon the Detroit Evening News sanoily remarks: "Such a change would be a cruel blow to Ypsilanti."

Pittsfield pulled up nobly for the republicans. E. B. Clark, for clerk, had 151 majority, and E. N. Gilbert for register, had 110. Mr. Clark also went out of this city with 376 majority, and Mr. Gilbert out of Ypsilanti with 132. All remarkably good runs.

David T. McCollum, for nearly a half century a resident of the fifth ward of this city, died last Wednesday morning, at about five o'clock. He was aged 81 years. He was a citizen much respected, and his death leaves another vacancy in the list of pioneers.

The defeat of Hon. E. P. Allen is not only a disgrace to the republicans of his district, but to the entire people of Ypsilanti without regard to party. It is to his energy and influence that they are indebted for the rebuilding of their noble Normal school building, and as a debt of gratitude every republican should have voted for him in preference to any other man in the district.

The people of this city were somewhat jubilant over the result of Tuesday's elections, and on Wednesday evening assembled in front of the court house to "jubilate." There must have been some 3,000 or 4,000 people in the crowd. The band discoursed patriotic airs, and students sang several songs, some of them being patriotic and some of them perhaps not exactly appropriate to the occasion, but all good, just the same. Fireworks also added to the attraction of the occasion, while the burning of red light in various places surrounding the square, the glare of bonfires, and the illumination of the Chandler house front, all tended to make the occasion a jolly and noisy one. At 7:30 o'clock Hon. A. J. Sawyer called the multitude to order from the court house steps, on the south front, and spoke a few congratulatory words. He was followed by Prof. Adams, and Prof. T. P. Wilson, the latter being remarkably happy in his utterances. At about 9 o'clock the gathering dispersed, all happy, all jolly, all willing to take everybody by the hand and shake for an hour or two continuously. The greatest satisfaction was manifest on all sides over the results, and no such enthusiasm has been shown here since war times.

Miss Fannie J. Chaffee, only daughter of Ex-senator Jerome B. Chaffee, will be easily remembered by the older residents of this city as the bright little daughter of the then plain Mr. Jerome Chaffee, who was doing business in this city as a moderate dry goods merchant. Time works changes. Mr. Chaffee took Greeley's advice and "went west," became a millionaire and United States senator for Colorado. A few years ago, about the time Fannie Chaffee was born, U. S. Grant was the humble proprietor of a tanning shop in Illinois. He became a colonel, then a brigadier general, next major-general, afterwards lieutenant-general, and finally full general of the United States army. From general to president, he could rise no higher in any republic. There has been a wedding and the son of a tanner marries the daughter of a former Adrian dry goods merchant. That is to say, had this marriage occurred a few years ago this would have been the proper understanding regarding the antecedents of the high contracting parties.—Adrian Press.

The New Seal

of the World's Dispensary Medical Association of Buffallo, of which Dr. R. V. Pierce is president, consisting of a figure of Aesculapius, the Father of Medicine, surmounting the globe, fitly symbolises the world-wide reputation gained by the family medicines of Dr. Pierce now manufactured by this incorporated company and sold in all parts of the world. With a mammoth establishment, the World's Dispensary and Invalid's Hotel in Buffalo and a correspondingly large branch establishment in London, this Association make medicines for the whole world—not only that but they personally examine and treat with special medicines thousands of cases. Among the most celebrated of the proprietary or family medicines are Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the great blood-purifyer, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets (little pills),—and Dr. Pierce's Compound Extract of Smart-Weed—for bowel affections, colds and painful attacks, as colic, neuralgia, and rhuematism. Favourite Prescription furnishes relief from female weaknesses, and kindred affections. All sold by druggists. 863-1w

A Losing Joke.

A prominent physician of Pittsburg said jokingly to a lady patient who was complaining of her continued ill health, and of his inability to cure her, "try Hop Bitters!" The lady took it in earnest and used the Bitters from which she obtained permanent health. She now laughs at the doctor for his joke, but he is not so well pleased with it, as it cost him a good patient, Harrisburg Patriot. 860-2w

The other evening a young lady down town took a severe cold by sitting too long on the back stoop with her lover, but she says she is all right now, for one bottle of Universal Cough Syrup cured her.—Every bottle warranted—try it. 689-1w

Try "Kendall's Spavin Cure." a sure remedy for Spavins, Curbs, Ringbones, or any enlargement of the Joints, See Advertisment.

H. F. McCarthy, Wholesale and Retain Druggists, Ottawa, Ontario, writes: "I was afflicted with Chronic Bronchitis for some years, but have been completely cured by the use of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, in doses of 5 drops on sugar. I have also pleasure in recommending it as an embrocation for external use."—Sold by F. Ingram.

Thos. Fitcham, Bradford Pa., writes: I enclose money for Spring Blossom, as I said I would if it cured me. My Dyspepsia has vanished with all its symptoms. Many thanks, I shall never be without it in the house. Prices 50c., trial bottles 10c. Sold by F. Ingram.

Why ought the children of a thief to be burnt! Because their Pa steals (pastiles.) Burns, scalds, cuts, bruises cured by Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil.

SEA-HORSE.

No proprietor of a Sea-Horse has ever, to our knowledge, had any occasion for using Kendall's Spavin Cure, but it has been used on thousands of spavined horses with most wonderful success, and it is now being used with the very best of satisfaction for every kind of a blemish or lameness on beast or man. As it does not blister and is certain in its effects, it is becoming the most popular liniment ever used for horse or human flesh. Read the advertisement in another column.

TO ACCOMMODATE THE PUBLIC.

The proprietors of that immensely popular remedy, Kidney-Wort in recognition of the claims of the public which has so liberally patronized them, have prepared a liquid preparation of that remedy for the special accomodation of those who from any reason dislike to prepare it for themselves. It is very concentrated and, as the dose is small, it is more easily taken by many. It has the same effectual action in all diseases of the kidneys, liver or bowels.—Home and Farm.

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS.

"Is it possible that Mr. Godfrey is up and at work, and cured by so simple a remedy?"

"I assure you it is true that he is entirely cured, and with nothing but Hop Bitters; and only ten days ago his doctors gave him up and said he must die!"

"Well-a-day! That is remarkable! I will go this day and get some for my poor George—I know hops are good."—Salem Post. 867.—2w

AROUND THE YEAR.

BY HART LYMAN.

Love came to me in the Spring-time,
With the soft, sweet April showers;
Her breath was the breath of the woodland,
And her lap was filled with flowers.

Her step was a song in the silence;
Its melody rose and fell
As she danced through the fragrant twilight
To the bower we knew so well.

And the Spring glided on to the Summer
With the flame of its fervent darts,
And the noon of the fleeting season
Was the noon of our beating hearts.

But the Autumn came with its shadows,
And noon was no longer hot;
And the frost crept into our pulses,
And Summer and Spring were not.

And Love was alive with the Winter,
But her beauty and grace had fled;
'Mid the snows of March I left her,
With a cypress wreath at her head.

Hurrah for the man at Mentor!
The canal boy and teacher;
Hurrah for the man at Mentor!
The soldier and the preacher;
Hurrah for the man at Mentor!
Our president is he.
Then give to him three rousing cheers,
This General James A. G.

Good-bye! Too oft an idle word.
Yet holding thousand meaniugs fast
That bind us sadly to the past,
Or strike on Hope's sweet harp a chord
Whose music whispers in each heart,
"'Tis sweet to meet, if sad to part."

Adieu! Good-bye! Ah, who can tell
If those who smiling part shall see
Each other more; or if shall
This light "God speed!" their last farewell?
The loving hand's last pressure o'er,
And lone hearts moaning, 'Nevermore?"

LIFE IN THE LONE LAND.

BY EDWARD S. ELLIS.

CHAPTER I.

In the autumu of 18—, the British ship Albatross was slowly forging through Hudson Straits, on her way to York Factory, on the western shore of that immense expanse of water which divides Prince Rupert's Land from Labrador.

Whales had been seen at intervals, and as the Albatross entered the vast bay enormous masses of floating ice and icebergs were encountered. These demanded skillful seamanship and constant vigilance on the part of the captain; but the ship had been specially prepared in the London docks for the perils of the Polar seas, and she craunched through the ice floes with little danger from the thumping masses, that were driven at times as high as the gunwales.

But the towering iceberg is resistless, and with its prodigious bulk, reaching downward into the counter current, so that it is driven directly against the upper one, these mountains become the most formidable dangers to navigators in the Northern waters.

The vessel was well across Hudson Bay, when, just at sunset, there came a dead calm, and the Albatross rose and fell with the long swell, without advancing or retrograding.

"How wonderful!"

"The most impressive sight in the world!"

These exclamations were uttered respectively by two lads, Brinton Warren and Fred Newton, who were looking off to the westward, where the most extraordinary spectacle was to be seen.

An iceberg, of more stupendous proportions than any yet encountered, lay three-quarters of a mile away. It appeard motionless in the water, though, as is always the case, it was drifting in some direction; and woe to the ship or living object that happened to lie in its path!

The setting sun was directly behind it, so that, while the great central mass loomed dark in the gathering twilight, the outer portions, the steeples, minarets, peaks and pinnacles, assumed a delicate greenish-white color, the whole contour of the floating mountain, as thrown against the sky, being gilded by the gorgeous sunlight beyond.

In the stillness of the hour, the noise of numerous waterfall, produced by the melting ice, could be distinctly heard, and the gigantic pile looked to be much nearer than it really was.

"Let's row out to it," said the youth known as Brinton Warren. "We can go all around it, and be back to ship so as to turn in at the usual time."

"Just the thing, provided the captain won't object," responded Fred Newton. "I'll ask him."

Skipper Horton was inclined to forbid the proposed excursion, when first approached, but Brinton was the son of one of the directors of the Hudson Bay Company, who gave the annual dinner to the officers of their ships upon the eve of their departure from Gravesend.

Fred was nephew of the same gentleman, so that the cousins were assusred of considerate treatment so long as they remained under the eye of the captain of the Albatross.

It did not require long, therefore, to obtain the required assent, supplemented by somegood advice, which, sad to say, fell unheeded upon the ears of the youngsters, who were so intent upon circumnavigating the iceberg.

Brinton, the elder, pulled steadily as the oars, frequently looking over his shoulder at the great mass looming up before them, while Fred scarcely took his eyes off the frozen mountain.

As they drew nearer, it grew upon them. It seemed to expand in all directious, while the most fascinating forms and figures conceivable came to view.

Falling streams of water were seen in a dozen different places, and the sound, as they splashed into the sea, was startlingly loud in the stillness of the gathering night.

The boat was propelled within a hundred yards of the mountainous mass, and then its circumnavigation began.

The lads looked upward, like the traveler in the Valley of Yosemite, awed by the inconceivable height and vastness of the bulk above them.

It was not long before they rounded the southern extremity, which, obtruding itself between them and the Albatross shut off all sight of the latter.

This, of course, was anticipated, and was inevitable, so the cousins paid no heed to it as they slowly coasted along the western side of the drifting island.

The rays of the declining sun were still above the horizon, and gave a splendor to the crystalline cathedral which was beyond description.

"Let's land upon it," said Fred Newton, in a whisper, as though impressd by the sound of his own voice.

"Do you see a good place?" asked Brinton, ceasing to row, and looking over his shoulder.

His companion pointed to where a shelf of ice came down to within a foot of the water, and beyond which the rough, jagged masses were such as the chamois hunter would have delighted to climb.

The boat was driven alongside of this wharf, and Fred stepped out, holding the craft, while his friend did the same, after laying the oars in the bottom.

The small anchor in the bow was then carefully jabbed into the ice, so that it seemed impossible for it to become freed, and, picking up their guns, the lads began climbing toward the crest of the iceberg.

It was their purpose to reach the elevation, from which they meant to wave their hats and fire a salute to their friends on the Albatross.

This seemed a comparatively slight task to two such active and athletic boys, but when they came to make the attempt, they found it difficult.

The irregularity of the ice formations—the intervention of pools and running streams, and the height of some of the table-lands—not only caused long deviations from their regular ascent, but frequently compelled them to turn back for a considerable distance.

"There's one thing I've found out," said Fred, as they stopped for a breathing spell; "which is that this iceberg isn't standing still like the Albatross. Away down in the lower regions of Hudson Bay, there's a current which has it by its base or feet, and is carrying it along somewhere, though I can't guess the direction."

"Not very fast?"

"No; not enough to make any difference to us. I thing it is going very slowly. But come, the sun is just dropping out of sight."

They were at it again with new vigor, for it was important that they should reach the top before darkness.

There was an improvement for a time in the ascent, but it grew hard again, and, when the sun dipped below the sea, they were not yet at an altitude which would give them a sight of the ship.

Only a few yards remained, and they shortly surmounted them. They reached a spot which allowed them to see over the rest, and out on the water beyond, in the direction of Baffin Bay. There were masses of ice, which still towerd forty feet above them, both on the right and left, but there was none in front, and, in the gloom of the coming night, the two lads caught the outlines of the Albatross, lying still and quiet in the water, which stretched away until it mingled with the gloom of the sky.

Several starlike points of light twinkled on board ship, but it was useless for the boys to wave their hats, for no one could see them, and they concluded not to fire their guns. But they indulged in several loud shouts, which finally brought their response.

Answering calls came back from the vessel, and several sentences were exchanged, the most important of which was a peremptory order from Captain Horton for them to return to the ship.

"Aye, aye, sir!" was the cheery response, as they started to obey.

The descent was much more difficult than the ascent, for the night was cloudy, their foothold was slippery and treacherous, and several falls warned them of serious danger.

However, the lads picked their way downward as best they could, until they judged they had gone nearly one-half the distance, when they found themselves so exhausted that they sat down to rest.

"What does that mean?" abruptly asked Fred Newton, pointing out upon the water.

The place indicated was just to the west of the northern extremity of the iceberg, and that which both saw consisted of two points of light, which, it could be observed, were slowly moving to the west.

Both stared in wonder, unable to tell for a time what the explanation of the phenomenon could be.

Do not you know that "they say" is the greatest story-teller on record?

A good rule for men and women, young and old, is: "Do nothing that requires artifice and concer'ment."

General Garfield once said: "In the hour of triumph let us be merciful, for it costs nothing but a little good nature."

Chicago Times, Nov. 16th.

The election of Garfield is the sixth successive judgement of condemnation which the nation has entered against that organized historic infamy, the so-called Democrat party.

The following quotation from the scriptures comes in very pat at this time. It has been telegraphed to General Garfield. Psalm 75, verses 6 and 7: "For promotion cometh neither from the east nor from the west, nor from the south. But God is the judge: he putteth down one, and setteth up another."

CLEVELAND, O., November 3— Seven hundred of the faculty and students of Oberlin college visited Mentor to-day, the first deputation to congratulate Gen. Garfield, who said to them:

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—This spontaneous visit is so much more agreeable than a prepared one. It comes more directly from the heart of the people who particiipate in it, and I receive it as a greater compliment for that reason. I do not wish to be unduly impressible or superstitious, but, though we have outlived the days of the augurs, I think we have a right to think of some events as omens, and greet this a happy and auspicious omen that the first general greeting since the event of yesterday is tendered to me by a venerable institution of learning. The thought has been abroad in the world a good deal, and with reason, that there is a divorce between scholarship and politics. Oberlin, I believe, has never advocated that divorce. But there has been a sort of cloistered scholarship in the United States that has stood aloof from active participation in public affairs, and I am glad to be greeted to-day by the active, live scholarship tha thas touched upon the nerve center of public life so effectually as at Oberlin. For this reason I am specially grateful for this greeting from the faculty and students of Oberlin college and its venerable and venerated president. I thank you, ladies and gentleman, for this visit. Whatever the significance of yesterday's event may be, it will be all the more significant for being immediately indorsed by the scholarship and culture of my state. I thank you, ladies and gentlemen, and thank your president for coming with you. You are cordially welcome.

CRUELTY EXPOSED.

EDITOR COMMERCIAL:—

Allow me through your columns to call the attention of the authorities to a case of cruelty which ought to receive immediate attention:

Some parties returning from church last Sabbath evening were drawn to the old cemetery by the cries of an animal in distress, and found there a young calf tied to a tree, with no protection from the weather and no bed but the ice and snow. Through how much of that bitter storm it had been exposed was not ascertained; but enquiry developed the fact that it belongs to a person—respect for humanity forbids to call him a man—living on Cross st., and that it is habitually tied in the cemetery through all these cold rains and fierce winds, without bed or protection or even the chance to keep warm by activity, in order that its presence and bleating may keep the mother somewhere in the adjoining street, and thus save the cost of care and pasture.

It is to the credit of the state of Michigan that there are laws for the protection of these dumb wards of the human race; but it is not to the credit of the neighborhood we speak of that no one has had the courage or care to see these laws enforced in this particular case.

We have no sympathy with the rude ways in which popular indignation is won't to express itself; but we confess we would be glad to see the perpetrator of this heartless cruelty upon a defenseless animal, in some way made to feel the force of a justly outraged public sentiment.

HUMANITAS.

PETER WOODLAND.

The terrible accident by which twenty-eight men were suffocated in the Hudson River tunnel revealed the heroic courage of superintendent Woodland. The New York Tribune in speaking of it says:

There was no time for preparation or thought; the river was bursting in on them. One man, Peter Woodland, a Dane, came to the front, cool, intelligent, collected. There was a chance that eight of the men could be saved by breaking the glass bulleye; but when it was broken his own instant death must result. It is probable that in that brief moment he counted the cost. He was an educated man, to whom life had given much; he was young, strong; he had a wife and children. "I saw his face," says one of the survivors, "as he looked through the glass at us; it was ghastly pale. His voice sounded strange. He gave the order, "break the bullseye'. We knew there was no chance for him after that was done, and hesitated. But he shouted, 'knock out the bullseye, and do what you can for the rest of us!'" They obeyed and were saved, Woodland and the others were drowned.

The world has always made much of its heroes who die in battle or for a great cause. The dauntless there who held the bridge; Nelson dying in Hardy's arms; the maid burning at the stake—these are possessions that belong to us all, ennobling us all; they stir the blood in the boys' veins from generation to generation. The great Maker of us all sends such men among us from time to time, in the fraud and meannesses and corruption of every day life, like great thoughts to refresh us. Do not let us be blind to them because they die in the mud of the Hudson River instead of at Rome or Thermopylæ, There was no heroic rage of battle, no great course to uphold Peter Woodland when he chose to die in that tunnel the other day. The men he saved were not his kinsfolk, nor even his friends; they were strangers—the laborers whom he superintended. There was no applause to gain, no emeny in sight to kindle his courage, nothing but foul muddy flood coming in on him. No man in such case, could so nobly die, who had not nobly lived. No man, in the iminent moment of death, could coolly choose the best and manliest action and do it, who had not, in every hour of his ordaniry, daily life, habitually struggled for the highest ground and the best and manliest part open to him.

THE FEMALE FOR WHOM MRS. ABRAHAM LINCOLN HAD TO GIVE WAY.—Mrs. Abraham Liucoln was a passenger on the same steamer across the Atlantic with Sarah Bernhardt. She was says the reporter, plainly, almost commonly dressed. There was a bad rent in her ample cloak. Her face was furrowed and her hair was streacked with white. She had come alone across the Atlantic from southern France, where she has lived for four years past. A nephew met her at quarrantine, but there were no friends around her, and no one to pay her attention. Bernhardt's carriage kept everybody waiting, and as Mrs. Lincoln, with her nephew, moved toward the gate, a policeman vigilantly touched her on the shoulder and bade her stand back, and back she stepped, while all the people there were jammed aside to let Miss Bernhardt's carriage draw up. when she had relieved the ferryhouse of her presence the widow of Abraham Lincoln was allowed to pass.

NORMAL ITEMS.

The following gentlemen were appointed members of the Board of Visitors: Supt. J. M. B. Sill, Detroit; Hon. Geo. Willard, Battle Creek; Hon. Edwin F. Uhl, Grand Rapids; Dr. M. MacVicar, the new principal, arrived with his son last Wednesday morning, he was entertained at Mr. Rexford's, and visited the school for the first time Thursday morning. As he came up on the rostrum with the other members of the faculty, the students made the chapel resound with their vigorous applause. After it had ceased and the religious exercises were over, Prof. Putnam in the absence of the President of the Board of Education, with a few appropriate words of welcome, introduced the Principal to the school. The Dr. addressed the students. All were greatly pleased with him.

Resolutions.

Adjournment.

It is very desirable that we have a beautiful exhibit of the best winter apples, and the executive board offer the following prizes to members of the society:

Best 5 varieties winter apples for market, $5.
Best 5 varieties winter apples to eat $5.
Best 5 varieties winter apples to cook, $5.

There must be exactly five specimens of each variety, and the awarding committee will consider not only the value of the varieties for each particular purpose, but the character, beauty, freedom from defects and general perfection of the specimens. Entries must be made by mail or at Ann Arbor the afternoon of Dec. 6. We desire a large exhibit of fruit, in variety; and, aside from the special exhibits named above, it is hoped that fruit growers will bring in from their abundance, especially of varieties regarding the names of which there may be some doubt.

Let us have a large attendance and fine exhibit. T. T. LYON, President.

CHAS. W. GARFIELD, Secretary.

A Queer Notion.

Many peoplethink it cheaper to buy 25 cent sizes of a proprietary medicine. But they make a mistake. For instance, Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry contains about eight times the quantity of ordinary 25 cent balsams. Becides it takes a less quantity of Wistar's Balsam to cure a cold. A single dose is often sufficient. For deep seated Colds and comiumption it has proven itself to be the best and quickest cure ever discovered. 845 1 yr.

For Thirty Years.

For thirty years Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry has been kept for sale by druggists generally, and in all that time there has not been a single complaint made, but on the contrary the druggists and the people acknowledge it to be the best remedy for the cure of Coughs, Cold, Consumption; Bronchits, Asthma, and all lung Diseases. 845 1 yr.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.

The Best Salve in the world for cuts, Bruises, Sores, Ulcers, Salt Rheum, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns, and all Skin Eruptions. This Salve is guaranteed to give perfect Satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Frank Smith, Ypsilanti. 859-1y

KIDNEY-WORT

The Only Remedy
THAT ACTS AT THE SAME TIME ON THE LIVER, THE BOWELS, and the KIDNEYS.
This combined action gives it wonderful power to cure all diseases.

Why Are We Sick?

Because we allow these great organs to become clogged or torpid, and poisonous humors are therefore forced into the blood that should be expelled naturally.

KIDNEY-WORT WILL CURE

BILIOUSNESS, PILES, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEY COMPLAINTS, URINARY DISEASES, FEMALE WEAKNESSES, AND NERVOUS DISORDERS, by causing free action of these organs and restoring their power to throw off disease.

Why Suffer Billions pains and aches? Why tormented with Piles, Constipation? Why frightened over disordered Kidneys? Why endure nervous or sick headaches? Why have sleepless nights?

Use KIDNEY WORT and rejoice in health. It is a dry, vegetable compound and One package will make six qts of Medicine. Get it of your Druggist, he will order it for you. Price, $1.00.

Liquid KIDNEY-WORT

In response to the urgent requests of great numbers of people who prefer to purchase a Kidney-Wort already prepared, the proprietors of this celebrated remedy now prepare it in liquid form as well as dry. It is very concentrated, is put up in large bottles, and is equally efficient as that put up dry in tin cans. It saves the necessity of preparing, is always ready, and is more easily taken by most people. Price, $1 per bottle.
